No this is integration process and its known for all Cex...

But you didn't informed us about it before 2:45 AM

Jarvis ||/SyntaxVerse 🔥

Thank you. But we need atleast 1/2 more team members...

That's why i requested you to add your senior listing managers or BingX official support earlier.

We have a lot of time for testing, we already paid the listing, why you dont want to announce the listing of syntax, even though only pre listing announcements like "soon". 2:46 AM

Vladimir | BingX Official

Understood, and we apologize for the misunderstanding.

We thought this was already understood since it is a standard final-stage process used across most CEX listings before public announcement and trading activation.

The integration, verification, and final testing are required to ensure everything is fully operational and stable before exposing the listing to users publicly. 2:47 AM

Mate the integration should be done at our beta system..

We already completed the payment and you told

The scammer used email domain spoofing to mimic an official BingX sender address. As I pointed out in the source file of the email you provided, while it may appear identical to our official communications at first glance, the underlying domain is different.

This is precisely why your email system flagged it as spam (as shown in the image), which is a common characteristic of phishing attempts.

Regarding the scammer's Telegram name, it was created by hijacking a deactivated employee's account and altering it. We identified this immediately and revoked their verification
